DETAILED ACTION

Election/Restrictions

1. Applicant's election of species I in the reply filed on 10/11/07 is acknowledged. Because applicant did not distinctly and specifically point out the supposed errors in the restriction requirement, the election has been treated as an election without traverse (MPEP § 818.03(a)).

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 112

2. Claims 1, 13-15, 20, 22, 24, 26, 28 and 30 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 112, second paragraph, as being indefinite for failing to particularly point out and distinctly claim the subject matter which applicant regards as the invention. It is not clear whether claim 1 is directed to a boot per se or to the combination of a boot and some other assembly. For example, line 1 of claim 1 is directed to a boot per se, however, lines 17-20 are directed to the boot in combination with other assembly in view of the phrase "after assembly". The claims will be examined on the merits as if a boot per se is being claimed.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 102

3. The following is a quotation of the appropriate paragraphs of 35 U.S.C. 102 that form the basis for the rejections under this section made in this Office action:

A person shall be entitled to a patent unless –

(b) the invention was patented or described in a printed publication in this or a foreign country or in public use or on sale in this country, more than one year prior to the date of application for patent in the United States.

Art Unit: 1794

4. Claims 1, 13-15, 20 and 22 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(b) as being anticipated by Skinner 4,242,164. The reference discloses a boot 26 comprising a first collar, a second collar larger in diameter than the first collar and an annular wall connecting the collars that widens from the first collar to the second collar in a S-shaped way; see Figure 4. The boot also has wall portions next to the collars that are approximately parallel to the axis of the boot. The statements of intended use in lines 1-4 of claim 1 do not add any patentably significant structural features to the claimed boot.

5. Claims 1, 13-15, 22, 24 and 26 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(b) as being anticipated by the Japanese patent document 10318379. The reference discloses a boot comprising a first collar, a second collar larger in diameter than the first collar and an annular wall connecting the collars that widens from the first collar to the second collar in a S-shaped way; see Figure 2. The boot also has wall portions next to the collars that are approximately parallel to the axis of the boot. The statements of intended use in lines 1-4 of claim 1 do not add any patentably significant structural features to the claimed boot.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 103

6. The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

7. Claims 20 and 30 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over the Japanese patent document 10318379 in view of Welschof et al 4,392,838. The primary reference discloses a boot comprising a first collar, a second collar larger in diameter than the first collar and an annular wall connecting the collars that widens from the first collar to the second collar in a S-shaped way; see Figure 2. However, it does not disclose a thickened first collar or a protective sleeve at the first collar. Both of these features are well-known in the sealing boot art, for example see Figure 1 of Welschof et al. It would have been obvious to one of ordinary skill in the art to use these two well-known boot features as taught in the secondary art in the product of the primary reference to improve sealing properties of the boot.

8. Claim 28 is rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over the Japanese patent document 10318379 in view of Schwarzler 6,179,717. The primary reference discloses a boot comprising a first collar, a second collar larger in diameter than the first collar and an annular wall connecting the collars that widens from the first collar to the second collar in a S-shaped way; see Figure 2. However, it does not disclose the use of ventilation grooves. The secondary reference discloses the use of two axial grooves 25 in combination with a circumferential groove to ventilate and prevent the entry of dirt and moisture in a boot; see column 3, lines 25-32. It would have been obvious to one of ordinary skill in the art to provide the boot of the primary reference with the ventilation structure of the secondary reference to prevent the entry of dirt and moisture.
